Create a Still Life Painting at Home!

When Kyrra Clevenger, public programs assistant at the Eiteljorg, would come across a Still Life painting at a museum she would often question “Why are there so many paintings of food?” and “What is so special about a bunch of fruit on a table?” To her surprise, still life paintings are actually pretty interesting! They can show us a new way of looking at ordinary objects around us. Sometimes, the objects chosen have a special meaning. It could be personal, spiritual, cultural, etc. An example of a still life at the Eiteljorg Museum is Catherine Carter Critcher’s Pueblo Family. This still life is somewhat different because it not only includes objects, it also includes people!

This activity encourages you to create a still life using objects in your own home!

Catharine Carter Critcher (American, 1868 – 1964)
Pueblo Family, 1928
Oil on linen
Gift of Harrison Eiteljorg, 1989.2.53

(activity cont’d)
Materials

- Paper
- Inanimate Objects (fruit, vegetables, flowers, vases, etc.)
- Pencil
- Oil Pastels, crayons, markers, etc.

Directions

Step 1: Set up your still life! If you’re having difficulty choosing objects, think of a meaning you want to portray in your painting. Are you wanting this painting to be happy? Sad? Have cultural meaning? Represent a memory or a loved one?

Step 2: Draw, paint, and create your vision of the still life. Be sure to fill the whole paper!

Step 3: Take a photo of your finished work and share it by tagging #EiteljorgAtHome.